

Wakefield Plays Majors In First Night Contest

By "DUCK" DUCKSON

Wakefield's Warriors headlines the local grid scene this weekend, as rival Washington-Lee has an off date. The Warriors tackle Mount Vernon on the latter's field tonight at 8:00 p.m., the initial night contest in the schools history in two years of football competition.

Before gametime, head coach Dick Johnson was uncertain as to his starting quarterback, and was faced with reserve complications at the end positions. Henry Mayo, the squad's number one signal caller, has been used strictly on defense since and including last week's encounter against the George Washington JVs, due to a bruised hand.

He tried a few plays in last night's practice at Four Mile Run, but remains on the doubtful list. The return of Ed Hall eases the coaches problem at end, with Mert McGill and Al Lederle, the latter slowed down with a leg bruise, along with Braumbaugh, complete the starting offensive and defensive alimnet, with only slightly tested reserves next in line.

Up front the Warriors are set both ways, and are confident they can stop the ground game of the Majors. Bill Lady, who did such a creditable job against George Washington, is the likely starter at quarterback, with Schlapkohl and Gardiner at the halves and Tom Perkins at full.

Mount Vernon's quarterback Ralph Zehring and halfback Mike Hicks will spearhead the assault against Wakefield, likely taking the air, where right end Eddie Lakey poses as the man to watch. Washington-Lee whipped this same Mount Vernon team 47-6, and the Mounts are out to even the score against Arlington. The Warriors are just as anxious for victory, hoping to duplicate the margin of victory to show their progress in Northern Virginia grid ranks. Busses and a motor caravan will leave Wakefield high at 7:00 p.m.

Probable starting lineups for the game:

Wakefield	vs.	Mount Vernon
McGill	LE	MacPherson
Stamp	LT	Monroe
